

Strategies to help students master phonics and high frequency words using Wordshark and Catch-Up

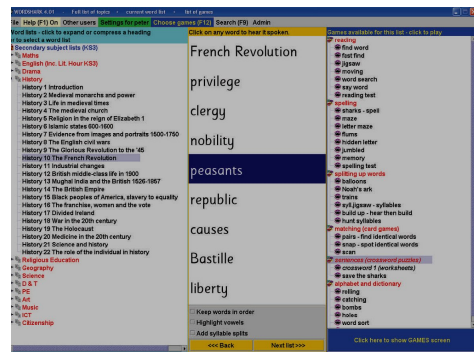

Mary Delahunty Pat Minton

For teachers, parents, students, psychologists, therapists and others.

This is a hands-on session so you can try Wordshark and Catch-Up, two innovative and stimulating software programs, which can make a real difference to students' literacy skills, even if they have had a slow start. This is powerful technology to enable students to be successful and to enjoy learning so come to see HOW students can master spelling.

There are carefully designed games and activities for reading and spelling, to assist memory skills, perceptual and conceptual difficulties which students find fun. They learn, often without realising it!

You will be taken through Wordshark and Catch-Up in easy steps while the support features are emphasised. Ideas will also be given for off- computer activities at home and at school which can be integrated into the programs.
